

Playing the Leadership Game - Practical tools for school executives

Presented by Daniela Falecki

Sick of listening to everyone else? Better manage the blamers and support the high flyers with principles in transformative leadership and coaching psychology.

Format: Face to Face

Audience: School leaders who are tired of dealing with the same people and same issues on a daily basis.

Description

Sick of listening to everyone else? This course is your turn to be heard as leaders. Learn the principles of transformative leadership and coaching psychology, to better manage the blamers and support the high flyers.

1. Getting clear on what you want

As leaders we are not only accountable but try to inspire responsibility in others. Transformative leaders are those who set a clear vision that is shared by others, stimulate reflection and model emotional management (Leithwood, 2007). AITSL agrees that coaching psychology offers teachers valuable tools to mentor new scheme teachers or support experienced teachers as they grow into leadership positions. Either way, coaching psychology is a simple and effective, evidence based way to address teaching standards, develop professional practice and better lead others on their teaching journey.

2. Understanding a coach-approach

Business executives have been using a coach-approach for years with growing evidence showing the benefits for school leaders. In this session we learn the science of coaching and explore simple and effective strategies that encourage reflection, insight into pedagogy and build positive learning communities. We explore the dynamics of teams and ways to remove the 'us & them' mentality to move from storming to performing.

3. Manage others by being my best self

As leaders we are often expected to hear the issues of everyone else but what about you? With theory and practice from the previous sessions we look at typical scenarios of how to move people from good to great with opportunities to vent, share and learn from each other. We explore options for managing the bullies, bludgers and blamers whilst supporting our consistent, reliable colleagues as well. Participants leave with strategies to better manage others, a greater understanding of their own strengths and how to better manage their own wellbeing.

Occurrences

There are no occurrences of this format in Australia (NSW) at this time.

Sessions

1. Getting clear on what you want

2 hours

As leaders we are not only accountable but try to inspire responsibility in others. Transformative leaders are those who set a clear vision that is shared by others, stimulate reflection and model emotional management (Leithwood, 2007). AITSL agrees that coaching psychology offers teachers valuable tools to mentor new scheme teachers or support experienced teachers as they grow into leadership positions. Either way, coaching psychology is a simple and effective, evidence based way to address teaching standards, develop professional practice and better lead others on their teaching journey.

2. Understanding a coach-approach

2 hours

Business executives have been using a coach-approach for years with growing evidence showing the benefits for school leaders. In this session we learn the science of coaching and explore simple and effective strategies that encourage reflection, insight into pedagogy and build positive learning communities. We explore the dynamics of teams and ways to remove the 'us & them' mentality to move from storming to performing.

3. Manage others by being my best self

1 hour

As leaders we are often expected to hear the issues of everyone else but what about you? With theory and practice from the previous sessions we look at typical scenarios of how to move people from good to great with opportunities to vent, share and learn from each other. We explore options for managing the bullies, bludgers and blamers whilst supporting our consistent, reliable colleagues as well. Participants leave with strategies to better manage others, a greater understanding of their own strengths and how to better manage their own wellbeing.

About the presenter

Daniela Falecki

Creator

Daniela Falecki is known as the "keep-it-real" teacher who specialises in Positive Psychology. Her passionate and practical approach makes her a sought after speaker in schools because she knows what it is like. Sharing stories from her 20 years of experience in schools, her insights are practical, realistic and evidence based. Daniela also lectures at Western Sydney University, is a Senior Associate for Dr Suzy Green & the Positivity Institute, and is the developer of many BOSTES accredited mentoring and coaching programs for teachers. Daniela has been the NSW Manager for the Outdoor Education Group, program developer for International College of Wellness Coaches and is a member of the ICF (International Coaching Federation). She has completed a Masters in Education (Leadership), a Bachelor of Education (Physical & Health Education), a Diploma in Rudolf Steiner Education, a Life Coaching Certificate (Life Coaching Academy) is a Master Neuro Linguistic Programming practitioner and was voted Lecturer of the Year 2014 at Western Sydney University.

Enrol now to secure your spot

Limited spots are available. Please enrol online or fax your enrolment to 1300 667 691 to secure your spot.

Please note, by submitting this enrolment form you are confirming that you have been given financial approval by your employer to attend this course. Cancellation advice should be given in writing 7 days before the commencement of this course.

Product: Playing the Leadership Game - Practical tools for school executives

Occurrence Date:

Your Name:

Your email address:

Employer name:

Employer phone:

Enrol online at <http://tta.edu.au>