Sessions

Intro to teaching online - the good and the not so good.

1 hour

A brief look at some of the advantages and disadvantages to teaching online including strategies for overcoming the common obstacles.

Websites & Learning Management Systems - Where to put your teaching resources and materials.

2 hours

We will cover where you can put your content online from a choice of platforms including Google Classroom, Google Sites, Weebly, Edmodo and Facebook. We will take a quick look at the features of each, cover the quick start steps and provide curated links to more detailed tutorials.

Screencasting - Making videos instead of being 'up the front'

2 hours

This session covers putting your 'up the front' teaching online in a super simple way. Includes best practice tips, step-by-step instructions and time to convert your existing lesson into a video resource using Screencast-o-matic.

Video material - Free tools to create interactive & engaging resources

2 hours and 30 minutes

You have probably used a video resource in class that you paused and asked questions throughout? Good news is you can still do that online. You'll be guided through the process of converting one of your most used YouTube clips into an interactive experience. You'll also use a free program to create an engaging didactic video in 15 minutes.

Quizzes & tests - Turn that paper test into an online assessment

2 hours

Here we will check out free tools that make learning interactive and engaging. We will explore the two top tools for creating online quizzes and tests for your students.

Online lessons - Plan, design and deliver your lesson online

2 hours and 30 minutes

Technical and pedagogical instructions on how to run an online lesson using WebEx. We will cover different approaches to delivering synchronous online lessons and engagement strategies including virtual excursions. Download a free PowerPoint template to make sure your lessons are visually appealing and pedagogically on point.

About the presenter

Belinda Jennings

Creator

Belinda teaches at Virtual School Victoria and has created over 15 courses in her 10 years at the school. She specialises in integrating ICT and the creation of online learning for both classroom and online education. She created her first website hosting curriculum materials for photography students in 1999 using Frontpage (remember that?)

Throughout her teaching career Belinda has eagerly embraced new tech tools and has been innovative in utilising them to increase student engagement, maximize outcomes and streamline her own teaching practice for efficient and effective curriculum development, feedback and assessment. She has delivered professional development for teachers since she graduated and was a presenter at EDUTech in 2013.

Belinda is committed to ongoing informal and formal professional development, both as presenter and participant. She is skilled, and has 15 years experience, in empowering educators to feel confident in exploring new technologies in their classrooms and/or online learning programs. Professional sharing - bouncing ideas, solving problems and envisaging new ways of educating young people - makes her happy.
